The path to a cure for FA is a long and winding one, with many different routes and detours. It all starts with research. Each idea or concept builds on the others, taking us closer and closer to better treatments and a cure. Many of today’s treatment protocols began 25 years ago as new research ideas funded by FARF.